

Orbit Drilling scoops the 2012 Business Innovation Award for State of the Art Accommodation

The competition was intense at the Edith Cowan University, North West Metro Business 2012 Awards, which was held at the Joondalup Golf Resort. Orbit Drilling was one of 12 businesses that were in tough competition for title of Business Innovation of the Year 2012.

Mr Martin Smith, Managing Director, explained that over the last 16 years Orbit Drilling has developed solid relationships with its clients and continues to investigate innovative ways to further enhance the delivery of the company's services.

"Having an understanding of the market and the likely future demands Orbit Drilling strives to be in a position to meet expected market growth and enhance the employees experience whilst working away from home" said Mr Smith.

It is well known throughout the exploration sector the difficulties that arise in remote areas regarding suitable accommodation and communication access and the large turnover of staff as a result of this.

"Orbit Drilling is a 100% committed to continually improving client and staff relationships, as a result the innovative concept of custom designed state of the art caravans was achieved through sharing real life experiences." added Mr Smith who has been involved in exploration drilling since the 80's.
